

THE ADVOCATE.

Don't for Young Mothers.

Don't neglect the baby; the little fellow has the first right to your attention.

Don't do everything for and with him you are advised to do; consider well the advice, and then rely most upon your own judgment.

Don't neglect to have the little fellow's clothing light, warm, loose and free from pins.

Don't wake the baby to exhibit the tints of his eyes to admiring friends; sleep is his most unquestionable right.

Don't spoil the infant by rocking or walking it to sleep, and do not let any one else do so; it will sleep best and most naturally when lying on a comfortable bed.

Don't strain the baby's eyes by allowing a strong light to shine into them, especially when he first wakes.

Don't lay the child down with his ears bent away from his head; the result will be deformity.

Don't try to prevent a teething child from sucking his thumb; it helps the work of dentition, and if the habit is acquired it can be broken by the application of some bitter tincture to the thumb, two or three applications only being necessary.

Don't fail to feel of baby's hands and feet during cold weather, both day and night. If they become cold rub them gently with warm water; if that does not have the desired result, wrap them in warm flannels.

Don't forget that small socks, tight clothing—anything that interferes with the circulation—will produce coldness of the hands and feet.

Don't forget that baby's lungs need plenty of pure, fresh air; but that they are still delicate, and ought not to be exposed to raw winds or sudden changes.

Don't let baby sit on the floor in cold weather; there is where the most dangerous drafts are to be met.

Don't let him sit or lie close to the windows for a similar reason.

Don't have the room too warm; seventy degrees is about the right temperature, and there should be as little change as possible.

Don't take the baby out in severely cold, damp or unhealthy weather, with the supposition that it will be the means of "toughening" him; it may do that—it may cost the little life.—Good Housekeeping.

Don't's For Husbands.

Don't hang about the kitchen with advice here and suggestion there, unless your wife has the same privilege at your work or place of business.

Don't require an itemized report of every dollar placed in her hands; even should she make an unwise expenditure, consider how many times you have given her the example.

Don't allow family disagreements or differences of opinion to crop out before children or servants; let all such things be reserved for private discussion, with mutual confidence and kindness.

Don't use all your kindness and gallantry away from home, and let the unpleasantness manifest itself in the family circle; try the other course for awhile and see how that will work.

Don't listen to the man, who begins to disparage his wife, or parade her real or fancied shortcomings to the world. Advise him to settle such things in the privacy of his own home.

Don't make it necessary for any person to give you like advice.

Don't pay a dollar for a lunch "down town," and as much more for cigars. While you think up plans for greater economy home.

Don't forget that members of the family have as good a right to a pleasant greeting when met and will appreciate it as much as the business acquaintance next door.

Don't forget a kindly word to the poor and unfortunate with whom you come in contact; it costs you nothing, and sends a ray of sunshine into lives which have enough of hardship and gloom in them at best.

After paying all its depositors in full and notifying its debtors that they would not be pressed for what they owed it, the People's Bank, of Chattanooga, Tenn., Friday transferred all assets to the Chattanooga National Bank. The step was taken owing to the city being overdone.

An exchange says that a well dressed man leaning against a lamp post, and apparently sleeping the sleep of the just, created a great deal of interest in a busy London street the other day. He sat on a box which he had been carrying. Evidently, being suddenly overcome with drowsiness, he had placed his box on the curbstone, and sitting down upon it, had fallen asleep. To those who succeeded in getting close enough to the man, his gentle, restless nose dispelled the fear that he might be dead. The side of his face was exposed, and betrayed no sign of intoxication. It was the judgment of every one that he was sober, in good health, and simply taking a quiet snooze. When the crowd became so deep as to threaten a blockade, the supposed sleeper suddenly jumped to his feet, mounted his box, and flourishing a couple of boxes over his head, exclaimed: "Now, gentlemen, see in that we are all here I rise to a question of privilege, and after thanking you for this most cordial reception which I assure you will long remain upon the tablet of my memory, I wish to call your attention to my world-renowned corn and vermin eradicator."

Just full of improvements—Dr. Peirce's Pleasant Pellets. To begin with, they're the smallest, and the easiest to take. They're tiny, angular-shaped anti-bilious granules, not much larger than mustard seeds. Every child is ready for them.

Then after they're taken instead of disturbing and shocking the system, they act in a mild, easy and natural way. There's no chance for any reaction afterward. Their help, constipation, indigestion, bilious attacks, sick or bilious headaches and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

They're put up in glass vials which keep them always fresh and reliable, unlike the ordinary pills in wooden or ordinary boxes. And they're the cheapest pills you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money is returned. You only pay for the good you get.

In the Pawn-shop. Herman Stone, the pawnbroker and jeweler, who has a place on Jackson street, near the corner of Fourth street, was looking over a quantity of unclaimed pledges recently, when he found something which fairly made his hair stand on end. About a year ago a young man called at the store of Mr. Stone and said he desired to borrow some money from the office on some personal property. The property consisted of a valise, an overcoat, a suit of clothes and a gold watch. The amount loaned on the goods was $45, and the man who secured the loan said he would call in the course of a few days and redeem the property. The goods were placed in the vault and have remained there undisturbed ever since.

When the musty old satchel was taken out of the vault it was found to be in the same condition as it was at the time it was placed in the room for safe keeping. The clothing had been made into one separate package. The valise was broken open and inside was found a red leather belt considerably the worse for wear. The belt was taken out and in handling, it was noticed that it was very heavy, and little pockets along the side.

Mr. Stone took the belt out to the front room of the store and opened the pockets. Out rolled gold pieces—double eagles to the number of thirty-four. They were bright and shiny as the day they were taken out of the Mint, and they looked as though they had just been taken from the bank. The coins were all of the same date, 1890. The money legally belongs to the finder unless some person from whom it was taken, as it was apparently stolen, proves his property.—St. Paul Globe.

There will be a candidate for Sheriff from Spencer who will announce at the proper time, and in the Democratic papers at that.

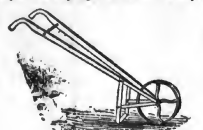

Ueda John Gilmore, of the Gilmore settlement, near Spencer, who suffered a stroke of paralysis some weeks ago, has almost entirely recovered. We are so glad. He is of the salt of the earth and we hope he will live long, though 84 years old now, to enjoy many more fish dinners on the banks of the classic waters where he has long lived.

There was a decrease of $99,406,762 in the value of breadstuffs exported from the United States, during the eleven months ended May 31, as compared with the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year.

A Wheel Hoe For a Small Garden—Spud For Destroying Burdock. The wheel hoe depicted in the first cut is an excellent little tool for the cultivation of garden crops, especially in a small garden where it is hardly practicable to use a horse and cultivator, and where vegetables are planted close together, such as asparagus. It is described as follows by the one who made and used it in the Ohio Farmer:

The wheel is of a moving machine and is 6 inches in diameter. The axle is 8 inches long. The cutter is a piece of heavy spring 36 inches long and about an eighth of an inch thick and bent as shown in cut and attached to the handle 6 inches from axle. The two braces are each 8 inches long and attached to the cutter about 2 inches above the handle. There are two holes in the end of each brace and also in each end of cutter to regulate the depth. The handles are attached to the axle by two pieces of strap iron, and a bolt through the axle holds the parts together tightly. It cost 50 cents for cutter, braces, bolts, etc.

With such an implement much work can be accomplished, provided the soil be free from stones or rubbish, and this is just the way a garden should always be.

A CONVENIENT WHEEL HOE. It should not be allowed to bake. No wheel hoe can be successfully used in crusted soil. Work as soon after a rain as the ground will crumble nicely.

In the second cut is a spud, which is described by another Ohio Farmer or correspondent who has used it for 15 years to destroy burdock. His farm was overrun with that pest, when he came in possession, but now they are nearly wiped out. By cutting them off below the ground they never sprout. The spud was made at that time in the following manner: He got a broken crosscut saw plate, took it to a blacksmith, had it bent about 15 inches long and cut tapering, the top of plate cut square across, and the pointed end cut a little rounding, as shown in Fig. 1. Then he punched two 1/4 inch holes, the first one about one inch from upper end of spud and the other two or three inches below, according to the length of spud. Then he made it a little

HANDLE AND SPUD COMPLETE. concave, which gives it strength to resist any pressure on the handle, which is cut beveling, as shown in Fig. 2. Any tough spud or fork handle will answer the purpose. The handle must be riveted on the concave side of blade; the head of rivet should be long and T-shaped, so as to be over the handle, and it may be split. He says: "I have a large and small spud. The latter is made from a hand saw, plate about eight inches long and two inches at point and tapering, as shown in Fig. 1, made in every way as the one described. My large one I use for spading in the garden. They are thin, light and easily kept sharp."

The Vegetable Garden. The farmer who has made provision for starting seeds under glass will have the earliest and the best gardens. With the aid of hotbed or cold frame, or both, all the vegetables that will bear transplanting (and most of them are) will be ready for the table by the first of June. The garden ought to have a south or southeastern exposure. To produce best results there should be at least one foot of good, rich soil. The practice of rotation is an important matter in the vegetable garden.

As a rule, never let the same crop or kind of vegetable occupy the same bed or space two years in succession. Potatoes, onions and a few other things may form an exception to this rule, but it is nevertheless better to keep up the rotation. Every year these beds must be warmed up by a liberal coat of manure, which should be thoroughly mixed with the soil. Grow everything in drills or straight lines. Larger crops from a given surface are grown in this way, and cultivation becomes simple and comparatively easy.

Pleuro-pneumonia in Canada. It has been officially declared by the authorities of Great Britain that contagious pleuro-pneumonia exists in the Dominion of Canada. With a view to protecting the stock interests of the United States the secretary of agriculture has ordered that all cattle to be imported from Canada into the United States be made subject to the same conditions and requirements as if they were imported into the United States from Great Britain or the continent of Europe. It is also ordered by Secretary Rust that all neat cattle imported from the Dominion of Canada must be entered at the port of Buffalo, which is distinguished as a quarantine station.

Here and There. The phosphate deposits in Florida are apparently inexhaustible. The territory of Arizona, so far as the sheep industry is concerned, is in a prosperous condition as any state or territory in the great southwest.

Farmers' wives and daughters will be much interested in the weekly congress of household economies, which will meet in the Art Institute building at the Lake Forest park, Chicago, during the week beginning Oct. 18. The world's agricultural congress meets in Chicago the same week.

It is a mistake to think that horses at such work can be kept entirely on hay. Such horses soon fall off in flesh and do not thrive.

THE ADVOCATE.

FIVE YEARS OLD.

Have you seen my baby fall?
Any where?
Golden curls, and sweet blue eyes,
Cape laughing in his play,
But yonder eye is closed to him my first
Low lullaby.

Have you seen my baby fall?

There he is.

As he dropped in his play,

Dancing of another way,

As he fell, or flower, or butterfly

Led him to stray.

Say you will yet return?

No again.

The bird must to the flower unfold,

Amid time's changes manifold.

To-day my boy, a tale last yesterday,

In five years old.

Yet I know that God's dear will

To fulfil,

Heir must become a man,

Learn the world's joy, and its pain.

Learn its losses and its gains,

And choose between.

Brave enough to right the wrong.

True and strong.

That by day my boy may grow,

Since best love knoweth it is better so,

I cannot wish him longer to remain

A baby boy.

Good Housekeeping.

Durable, Low-Priced carpet.

Where honest worth and wearing qualities are considered, the Ingrain carpet is the very best carpet at a low price. The shopper is warned, however, not to buy any inferior grade of this carpet, or indeed of any kind of carpet. The most admirable shams of the market are found in the carpet department. Mixtures of cotton, jute, hemp and all varieties of abominations are rife among inferior manufacturers of carpets. There is but one guarantee for the inexperienced shopper, that is to deal with a store that buys the best quality of goods from makers whose names are a guarantee in themselves of their goods. Many of the best makers stamp their names on the backs of their body Brussels, Wilton and Axminster carpets. There are many manufacturers of ingrain carpets whose names are security for these goods, and there have been great improvements in the patterns of these carpets in the last dozen years, so that no one need reject them on account of their inferior style. While upon the subject, let us say that the old-fashioned rag carpet is a very durable and may be a very tasteful floor-covering. It is certainly in every way to be preferred by a person of taste to a tapestry, velvet or even the much-vaunted Moquette, all of which must be classed as showy shams.—Good Housekeeping.

FLOUR NEW AND OLD.

Flour, when new, has (assuming that the wheat was in good condition) a sweet, nutty flavor; but it is more difficult to make good yeast bread with than when it has had time to lose nearly all its moisture. It is, therefore, better to get flour that has been ground a few months. Good flour will have a pleasant odor and a creamy tinge; poor flour, a grayish look and an unpleasant smell. Nearly all flour is now made by the roller process, but which gives more of the gluten and phosphates than the old process. This flour is granular to the touch, and because it packs more closely, it has about one-eighth more thickening power, measure for measure than that made by the old process; but weight for weight this is not the case. When using old rules that call for the measures of flour, use one-eighth less than the rule states.

Entire-wheat flour is, fortunately gaining in popularity among people who give the right sort of thought to the food that they supply for their families. This flour should be used almost wholly for bread making in families where there are children. It contains more of the nutritious and mineral matters than the white flour does. Whole-wheat meal and graham are, or ought to be, the same thing; that is to say, the wheat ground into a fine meal. It often happens that a poor quality of flour is mixed with wheat brand and sold for good graham. In making fine flour the germ is removed from the wheat, but in the meal this is usually not the case; therefore, they will not keep so well as flour. Buy all meals in small quantities and keep them, if possible, in tin cans or stone jars and in a cool, dry, well-ventilated place. Flour should be kept under the same conditions.—Maria Parlor, in Good Housekeeping.

Clarence Day, of Hazel Green, received an appointment by which he will enter West Point. He was at Spencer, this county, last week visiting his cousin, Will L. Day, and went from there to West Point. This is a high compliment to young Day, and we rejoice with him and his friends.

Plantation ailments people are often afflicted, as Dr.
Fenner found when traveling in the south.
Their diseases were painful.

Many of them had what they called "fever under the skin." This was a swelling of the parotid or sub-maxillary gland. He used with them, invariably, his Golden Relief. As it relieved the pain and reduced the swelling almost immediately in every case, they called it "Golden Relief Quick," a not inappropriate name. Dr. Fenner met a planter who informed him that he would sooner be without corn meal and bacon on which his colored help subsisted, than Golden Relief, which he used to cure their sores, pains, summer complaints, and flux. This Remedy cures any ailment which has inflammation and pain as its base, from a chronic bronchitis to a pulmonary consumption. Inflammation can no more exist in presence of this remedy than can the honey bee under the fumes of sulphur. No inflammation, no swelling, no pain, no bronchitis, no consumption. One tablespoonful dose is a certain cure for La Grippe, malarial fever, or neuralgia in its face. Safe and certain—never disappoints. Money refunded if satisfaction not given. Take a bottle home today.

WORLD'S FAIR SPECIAL.

POINTS OF INTEREST.

The Great Exhibit Growing.

Maj. Handy, (he of the inhuman side-whisker), has in a measure acknowledged his obligations to the press outside of Chicago, as evidence by the fact that the Illinois press association, who are visiting the fair this week, have at last been provided with the necessary passports during their stay. Perhaps it's "better late than never," but it would have been better if the department of which he is the head had never heard of him.

The attendance last week was large, that is, compared with previous weeks; this is accounted for by the almost perfect weather, and the presence on Thursday of the Princess Edith. What crowds, however, would attend the fair if the railroad would reduce their rates and the World's Fair management stop their quarrelling, and see to it that the Exposition and all its appurtenances was finished at once!

Herr Krupp exposed to view enough armament to storm the city of Chicago, and he enjoys the right of distinction of having constructed the largest gun in existence.

Slowly but surely (if the time is not too short against November 1) the exhibits in all departments are taking form, and the departments of electricity, mining and liberal arts, evince quite marked improvement in the way of installation over last week.

Perhaps one of the most interesting exhibits is that in the fabrics building. This is attested by the crowds who gather, two and three deep in front of the glass cases, which contain within them specimens both common and rare of the flimsy tribe; and adjacent thereto and reached by a corridor, supported by corinthian pillars, is the building wherein are housed not only the products of the deep, in the way of canned goods, but also the nets, boats, lines and even models of the fishermen's houses.

Mothers, bring your boys and girls to get them the fair, and if they or you get tired, just take them to the children's building, receive a baggage check for them, and go on your way rejoicing. On your return you will find they have been kindly treated and tenderly cared for, and too one if they don't cry for more next time.

Let me know it's novel, but it's safe, convenient and restful. Try it. The tenants of the Midway pleasure have almost resolved to life in the selection of a chief to represent them officially before the directors. They have been outrageously treated by the management and think this way will solve the difficulty.

To those who hold photographic passes, and who sometimes imbibe a little too freely, take warning from the following: One in that condition was seen by the guards apparently in physical and mental agony. On inquiry if they might assist him, he looked at them with half-closed eyes, shook his tangled locks, and said: "It's all right, I want to go into the fair, and I am just trying to shape myself up, to look like the picture on my pass." They let him in.

The little electric road, running inside the ground, had a motley crowd last week for passengers. The railroad management had invited all the citizens of the place to take a ride, and they seemed to enjoy the outing largely.

Nebraska kept pace with other states and countries and threw open her doors last week.

Michigan's soldiers (Orchard Lake cadets) have been having a gay time of it, and, Oh, what a crowd of pretty girls collect when they drill. They formed part of the escort of the Princess, on her recent visit to the fair.

Tall oaks grow from acorns, and so with the postoffice departments established within the grounds. Washington officials did not think it would amount to much. In May over 3,500,000 letters (domestic and foreign) were dispatched and received, while the value of the money orders issued and paid exceeded $25,000—a pretty good beginning and a very dull month at that.

Truly the exposition is a city of magnificent distances, and the management cannot put into execution any too soon the contemplated order for more settees and commence the donkey service of locomotion between the buildings.

TO EDWIN BOOTH.

As one and prince holds in his hands a skull
As tenderly as it had golden strands
And were blue eyes, so at thy reverent hands
Most worthless handles are no longer laid,
But take a wondrous taster not their own;
While diamonds cut by one of long ago
So richly shine as he alone could know
His precious jewels would one day be shown.

Like to a sashy freighted with a spice
New and most strangely sweet that wanders by,
So such a phantom thought before our eyes
Born of our love for that which will not die;
For such alone, dear Booth, for such as these,
Through the dark years he wrought so won-

The Park City Bank of Salt Lake City, Utah, also assigned, with assets and liabilities of $130,000 each. The McCague Saving Bank of Omaha, Neb., was closed by a Bank Examiner, and the Bank of Burr Oak, Kan., shut its doors, with liabilities of $35,000 and practically no assets. C. D. Hurlbert, one of its proprietors, has fled.

A Little Girl's Experience in A Lighthouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich. and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a Fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and after the use of two and a half bottles was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at W. S. Lloyd's drug store.

Col. A. W. Rueckner, one of Kentucky's prominent representatives in Colorado, has finally won his suit against Arden Mining Company, securing $230,000, besides certain stock in the company.

John L. Omond was executed by electricity at Sing Sing prison last week for the murder of his wife and John C. Burchell, his cousin, in New York city, October 3, 1891.

Rev. Ira J. Chase, late Governor of Indiana, gave bond at Kokomo in the sum of $3,000 to appear for trial at the October term of court on a charge of embezzlement, in connection with the failure of the Greenwood Bank.

The Lower House of the Legislature has passed a resolution providing for the adjournment of the Legislature July 3d. The Senate refused to concur in the resolution.
